B) SPECIFIC INFORMATION:

- Synthetic description of the course:
Constitutional Law encompasses the grounds of the different branches of positive law and the issue of legitimacy of society's legal order. The course aims at assuring a comprehensive knowledge of Italian constitutional topics (rights and guarantees, checks and balances of powers, sources of law, multilevel government) in the EU legal frame. The course is regularly held in form of lectures, seminars, talks and round tables with the participation of foreign experts. Yearly, a practical "constitutional case-law" seminar is organized for volunteer students.
- Course entry requirements:
General culture notions are essential, in particular good historical and geographical back-grounds. Constitutional law is a bridging course to Comparative public law and other subjects of the same area (Theory of State, Constitutional Adjudication, Regional Law).
- Expected learning results:
Accurate knowledge of the Italian Constitution, of the main sources of public law and government asset, with special regard to constitutional checks, regional and local governments and fundamental rights.
- Course programme:
Society, law, State; sources of law; national law, European law, international law; Italian and EU Constitution; the State; the legislative and executive branches; the judiciary; the President of the Republic; Constitutional Court; fundamental rights of individuals and communities; local governments.
- Verification system of learning results:
Preliminary general test and oral examination. For those attending the annual course an optional intermediate test will be held, exempting a part of the programme.
